

Shame Soireé Whitepaper v0.1

By Scarlet Death (scarletdeath.eth)

Shame Soireé is the name for my overarching collection of where some degree of humiliation is involved. This project is a cross between safe for work and not safe for work content where I explore shame, humiliation, isolation, and the fetishization of trauma.

In the context of BDSM, I am a Sadist. One of my favorite things to do is being mean to people. Kindness kills, but my anger is real. My friends say I'm a "Professional Wokescold." I'm not entirely sure what that means, but if you pay me to let me verbally rip you to shreds in various media formats under the auspices of self-gratification, I would be very thankful. (it's self-care)

Goals

This project seeks to create a connected world where I explore themes of shame and isolation. Between people enjoying roasted online, cancel culture, and humiliation fetish there don't seem to be enough avenues by which I can process my trauma regarding these topics. As a musician, writer, performance artist, perennial shitposter, and visual artist I want to try to bring everything together, encapsulating the full breadth and scope of what it means to be a human experiencing these feelings we often distance ourselves from.

In what ways can we make a mockery of our own shame? Some people love being roasted and humiliated. Some are in love with their pain. Some wear their trauma on their sleeves. Assigned victim at birth. In creating these spaces, my primary goal is to have this be a celebration of humiliation. Essentially, I need a playground for me to process my trauma and ethically cyberbully consenting persons.

Social Tokens

These ERC1155 tokens can be used for donations and pay-gated content. At present, only two are minted: “Downvote” and “You Disgust Me.”

Each contract will have runs of 10k per mint. Not all social tokens will get unlimited runs. There will be different tiers of token amounts required to access gated articles. Tiers will be outlined in a future update.

Planned

Shame Chits

Single-minted custom insults expected early 2023

Shame Hole

Developing a world in Meta Platform’s Horizon Worlds based around experiencing shame and isolation in a virtual space. Design first, then holding out for potential token integration in the software.

Trauma Treatises

Minting tokens of PDFs of my various musings on coping with complex trauma.

Customs

Intended to be a receipt of sale for custom content. When a user commissions me to do a custom shame chit or humiliation video, payment comes first. Mechanism in practice would be similar to clip sites where I can mint content after purchase publicly or privately. Private arrangements are encouraged for those who prefer an extra level of customization. The public facing element of this project will lean heavily on OpenSea’s bundle listings feature to a number of group batches. (Eg: 1 token gets you 5 minutes. 5 tokens gets you 20 minutes of video content.)

Podcast

The Shame Soiree podcast doubles as my Scarlet Death artist podcast on Spotify and Apple Music. Featuring interviews, artist announcements, fireside chats with friends, music reviews, and behind the scenes insight. There are no plans for Web3 integration for this content vector at this time. However, this will utilize Spotify's Podcast with Music feature as well as Premium Subscriptions on Apple Music.

Miscellaneous

Content field should always have the hash of the most current whitepaper document.

NSFW Disclaimer

In regards to the token for brokering commissions of custom insults and humiliation videos. The subject matter might be triggering for some. Anything too graphic will be token gated by an appropriate social token and embedded on the website.

Version History:

v0.1 – First draft attached to mint of “You Disgust Me” social token. Minted “Downvote” before publishing whitepaper.
